Celebrate Centenary at Cleveland, Ohio.

FRANK E. GORRELL

ed at Cleveland, Ohio, next week when the National Canners' Association meets there from January 26 to 30 to celebrate the centenary of the canning industry in this country, and to perfect plans for the national inspec-tion, educational and advertising cam-paign for the coming year.

This national campaign will be car-ried on from the association's head-quarters in the National Capital, where also are located the laborawhere also are located the laboratories of the industry and the convention will be attended by the national officers who reside here, among them being Frank E. Gorrell, secretary and treasurer; Frank Shook, assistant secretary; Dr. W. D. Bigelow, chief of the association's research laboratory; H. H. Loomis, national director of inspection, and W. H.
Fromm, director of the educational bureau.

Raise Sanitation Standard. By its inspection service the canners ave set up within their own industry an instrument which aims to raise further the standards of sanitation and hygiene even above the requirements of federal and state laws. Through their laboratories the association members already are carrying on experiments to develop more wholesome and more neletable foods. wholesome and more palatable foods, and to increase the safeguards about them—results which are published for the benefit of the entire industry. By its educational and advertising campaigns the association hopes to or campaigns the association nopes to bring about more intelligent use of canned foods, and to employ the art of canning as a means of conserving, economizing and distributing food to better advantage in a year when the country's food problem will be one of its principal concerns.

Where Quarters Are Located. The National Canners' Association sells no foods on its own account, nor is it interested in any problems but those which affect the industry as a whole. Its headquarters and labora-tories are at 1739 H street, other quarters are in the Mills building, and it has warehouses at Georgetown, where samples of food are stored pending laboratory examination. Most of its laboratory work, however, and all of its inspection work are done the officials in Washington.

The work of the National Canners' Association is augmented by the services of Dr. M. J. Rosenau and a corps of assistants at the Harvard Medical to Submit Draft. Suggestions as to forms for standard leases for rental houses, apart-ments, etc., have been asked in a let-ter from Guy Mason, one of the memter from Guy Mason, one of the members of the District rent commission, to Leon Tobriner, president of the District Bar Association. In his letter Mr. Mason stated that submission of suggestions for incorporation in a standard form of lease would not be a bar to subsequent institution of proceedings by persons submitting them to test the constitutionality of the Ball rent law, in which provision is made for the rent commission.

Commissioner Mason Asks President Tobriner of Bar Association

Text of Letter. Mr. Mason's letter to the head of the District Bar Association follows: "Section 117 of the act creating the rent commission provides, among rent commission provides, among other things:

"The commission shall prescribe standard forms of leases and other contracts for the use or occupancy of any rental property, hotel or apartment, and shall require their use by the owner thereof. Every such lease or contract entered into after the commission has prescribed and promulgated a form for the tenancy provided by such lease or contract shall be deemed to accord with such standard form; and any such lease or contract in any proceeding, before the commission or in any court of the United States or of the District of Columbia shall be interpreted, applied and enforced in the same manner as if it were in the form and contained the stipulations of such standard form.

Directed by Commission "By unanimous vote, the rent com-mission directed me to request the Bar Association of the District of Columbia to submit suggestions to the commission relative to the form of the leases and contracts required by the leases and contracts required by the foregoing section.

"The commission is mindful of the task confronting it in the administration of the law, and invites the fullest co-operation on the part of the Bar Association, owners, tenants, and agents and attorneys of both. Only by such co-operation can the law be administered fairly and justly.

"Suggestions from the Bar Association or any members thereof would not preclude any member of the Bar Association at any time from contesting the constitutionality or legal sufficiency of the Ball act or any part thereof or any ruling of the provisions of forms of leases or contracts presented by the commission."

British Also Throw Germans' Baggage Into Harbor at Suva.

SUVA. Fiji Islands. January I (Correspondence of the Associated Press).

—Five Germans, who formerly lived here, tried to return to this colony the other day, but were met by British service men, who threw their baggage into the harbor. The government has promised the Returned Soldiers' Association that the Germans will be interned pending a decision as to their admission to the islands.
